British Worry.
Wall Street Worry.
He Owns Competition.
To Kill, or Not To Kill.

ARTHUR BRISBANE

BIRMINGHAM has a new worry in India, and it is trencher among British in India. A population of a small town among 300,000,000.

British are in India, and natives would not obey their own people.

British are shifting native reports referring to after conduct which natives would not obey their own people.

WORST DAY IN WALL STREET SINCE THE LAST TALL STICK.

Speculating began to speculate on hopes to come for that has not come.

Travel by air and rail between New York and the South is reduced to less than regular and Pullman car travel.

Living from New York to Dallas or Oklahoma City you save 18 hours in time.

And so cuts are made by the railroad itself.

Wise Gen. Atterbury head of the Louisiana, decides that if he must face competition he will own the railroad.

ANOTHER energetic effort is made to abolish capital punishment. Efforts come by bits and starts, recent burning alive of convicts in the Ohio penitentiary, that convicts should not be saved alive when they haven't been sentenced to death.

Durant writes against capital punishment earnestly. At the beginning of the last century when the law was agitated, it was called "cruel to the judges of England" or knew what was good for crime.

** * *

HERE is more involved in the question than criminals or their fate, and that is the question of war and that is the question of peace.

At least 100,000 men have been punished with death. And little the human race has been spared somewhat by destroying lives as fast as they were caught in capital punishment now frighten criminals or help to rid the race of the killer type. It is a good thing. But it probably does neither.

Laws that inflict capital punishment which is simply killing officially or themselves murderous setting aside disgraceful example.

A REPORT on two jails in New York says prisoners are caged animals. Men unable to furnish innocent or guilty, are sent to prison. It makes a difference in our perfect democracy if you don't have any money.

It is a mistake to burn prisoners in unsafe prisons, a mistake to keep like "caged animals."

Life apart from human decency doesn't pay. Men thus caged are to cause trouble when they leave.

Ohio people will never be directly in Europe's way in taking up arms.

Responsible for the American Army bearing that it did not promise things people would not allow them.

WILLIAMS, able Rep. of the Island Curtis airport to break the world record.

Williams now holds the 1,440 loops and will make 2,000 loops in his next effort to double the strength of planes.

Doesn't matter whether it's 2,000 or 2,000,000 loops.

All Voice Determination That Dilly-Dallying Must End: Blame for Fire Laid Directly at Door of State for Failure To Provide Ample Facilities.

BY MURRAY POWERS
Staff Correspondent for the Star

COLUMBUS, April 20.—Mr. Murray Powers has the unequivocal support of Ohio editors in his plan to rehabilitate the state penal welfare system.

This support is reflected in a series of editorials opinions found in two newspapers since the frightening fire of $20,000 in the penitentiary here 10 days ago.

Everywhere it is voiced the determination that such a catastrophe shall never again occur in Ohio. Editors declare that no longer must there be any dilly-dallying in the way of taking care of the presumption that has begun to grow to make amends for the disastrous fire, it is declared.

Blame Clearly Placed

Blame for the fire has been laid at the door of the state. News papers are not the least hesitant in accepting the blame for the state. Since 1913, it is recalled, when Gov. James M. Cox declared that he wanted the state penitentiary to be the best possible, the subject of fire-proofing and enlarging the institution to care for the increasing number of men being sent up for law violations has come before the legislature.

And at each session the legislators have heard the appeal of welfare and penitentiary officials. But, as Warden Preston E. Thomas declared when he testified before the Belmont investigating committee Saturday, they have said, "Yes, warden we know you need help," and then promptly forgotten the situation.

This has largely been due, editors declare, to the facts that money was lacking, that the legislators were reluctant to add still more taxes to the increasing tax負burden and that political patronage often figured in the situation.

Appropriation Made

But now Ohio editors see no possibility of parsimony. Governor Cooper already has begun his program. Late Tuesday the state emergency board appropriated $100,000 to Welfare Director Hal H. Griswold for fireproofing and other repairs to buildings at the state prison. The money was made available so that work could be started immediately.

Governor Cooper believes that Ohio must now "pay the piper." He believes that the cost of rehabilitating the welfare and penal system of the state will cost more than $25,000,000, and in his campaign for renomination and reelection in the late summer and fall it is probable that the chief executive will make the prison and welfare program the major issue of his drive. He has made the rehabilitation program the main objective of his administration.

Governor Cooper already has called a meeting of his special welfare committee for late this week. At this meeting the first plans for action will be made. An investigation into the state system will come next with recommendations to follow.

Favor Change in Site

Both in Columbus and throughout the state editors are found recommending the removal of the penitentiary to another site. For a number of years it has been evident that the increasing prison population was a menace to Columbus. Located in the heart of the city fears of the result of riots, prison breaks or such a disaster as occurred Easter Monday have always been felt.

CHAPTER 31

Fortune Smiles

It was time to get away from the big city and so I set off to begin life again. And he did so. He had no idea of what he wanted to do, but he did know that it was good for him to be brave, so he took his chance and she was gone.

He found it Jacqueline's fault that he had been so foolish. She had been good to him, but he had been bad to her. And that's all. Frank po is now a free man. I have had an offer of $10,000 a month for him. But I won't tell you the present who I am going to do with him. And even that is not all.

Who else can there be? Teddie! I took that $10,000 to the Old Top Inn, and dropped it in my pocket. And that's all. There's something strange about bank notes which there isn't about a check.

And I said in my best manners: Look here Old Top Inn here is $10,000 pounds off that debt of $17,000 which you cleared up for me like the rapping old sport you are. And when I got the other ax thou'll bring a song. And what do you think the Old Top did?

Goodness knows, said Jacqueline. He took me in his arms and went aghast at them. I told her not to cry tears or my neck. Then the music darling, please don't cry. Good Lord! I would not have said a word if I had dreamed it would upset you.

No, no, Teddy, you have not upset me. I—I want to tell you something but I don't think I can today.

You must give me a little more time.

You have taken me rather by surprise.

I have told you so already.

Teddy.

Tell me again sweetheart because I love to be very old. I shall not hear it often enough."

But Jacqueline instead of telling him burst into tears.

Teddy sprang to his feet full of dismay and consternation. Jacqueline, my darling, what have I done? What a brute I am to worry you so!

Teddy.

All the joy seemed to have gone out of her and Teddy looked at her with concern.

But you love me Jacqueline?

Yes, I love you, Teddy dear.

And there is nobody else.

Nobody else, Teddy.

Then that's all I want. That is quite enough to make me happy and all the rest can wait. Of course, I have been a bit of a brute. That's the worst of me. I always go at things like a bull at a gate. So, I am going away now but I shall come again tomorrow and ask you to marry me. I am sure the Old Top and the master will welcome you and as for me, I shall worship you all my life. Jacqueline. Are you sure it is not this fellow Carew who is upsetting you?"

No, I am not upset over him.

Has he been asking you to marry him or anything absurd like that?

"Yes, he did ask me."

"The boulder," cried Teddy. "The conceited puppy. I thought as much when he thinks he is."

"But I refused him, Teddy."

"You angel."

"And if ever you happen to meet Mr. Carew, Teddy, you can if you like give him a piece of your mind. Because he annoyed me very much."

"Did he return Teddy grumbled.

"Leave him to me."

"But you are not to do anything violent like kill him and then you would be hanged. And what would I do then?"

"I promise you," replied Teddy solemnly that I will not kill him."

To be continued.

If at first you don't succeed try something else.
